WELCOME ABOARD

Abdul Sami Rassoli
Sustainability Specialist

My name is Abdul Sami Rassoli , though most people call me Sami. I was born on a cold, snowy winter day in 1991 in Kabul city , Afghanistan, into a family that valued education. My mother is a doctor, and my father held a master's degree in law and rights from Moldova .

After completing my schooling , I began my bachelor's degree in philosophy and sociology at Kabul University in 2010. Due to challenging circumstances, I worked in various fields during my studies, including supervising in a foreign company, engaging in business, and working in real estate—buying, selling, and constructing houses in Afghanistan.

In pursuit of new opportunities, I moved to the United States on November 2024, where I successfully began working with MISI company. This marks the beginning of my journey toward building my own business in America, a goal I am deeply passionate about.

Beyond my professional ambitions, I have a strong interest in personal development and staying informed about updates across various fields. My hobbies include watching football, traveling with friends, going to the gym, and constantly seeking new knowledge. Among my strongest skills is effective management, which has been instrumental in my career growth.

I also have a deep commitment to making a difference, particularly in supporting Afghan women who face barriers to education. I believe in creating opportunities for others and aspire to be the change I wish to see in the world.

Я хочу висловити свою подяку та вдячність компанії Misi, а особливо Суламіт Пастушак за допомогу нам. Дякую за підтримку іммігрантів, особливо в перші роки життя тут, в Америці. Добре, що є місце, куди можна звернутися, отримати пояснення, підтримку та правильний напрямок. Ще раз дякую!
